Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 02 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold with scattered showers. Wet and windy on Monday.

Today:
A day of patchy cloud, scattered showers and sunny spells. Showers may become heavy at times, possibly contain hail and will gradually clear from the west through the afternoon. Feeling pleasant in the sun, though temperatures dipping sharply in showers. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Any remaining showers, mainly in southern areas, quickly ease during the evening. A cloudy night follows, with limited clear spells. Some showers may develop again before dawn. Rural frost possible. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:
Early showers precede the late morning arrival of heavy rain and strong winds from the west. Feeling cold, with coastal gales likely. Turning showery overnight. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Remaining windy on Tuesday, with sunshine and showers. Sunny spells on Wednesday, with showers focused in the north. Drier on Thursday. Cold throughout, with overnight frosts and hill snow.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.